DEDICATION

McKendree College and the 1964 McKendrean Staff dedicate this yearbook to St. Louis, Missouri, on her 200th Anniversary, 1764-1964. Although McKendree College is twenty-five miles from the city, it has become part of the metropolitan area of St. Louis. St. Louis provides a place of cultural, religious, and social interest to students and faculty.

In the 200 years since her founding, St. Louis has grown from a small trading post into a large, modern city. McKendree College is likewise trying to advance from a small school to a larger, more cosmopolitan one. Both have acted as gateways of advancement — St. Louis as a gateway to the West in many areas, McKendree as a gateway to education in the Mid-West.

With pride in both the City of St. Louis and our own McKendree College, we thus present this book.

"McKendree College — The Greatest and best in the Middle West."

Theodore Roosevelt

COLLEGE FOUNDED IN 1828

OPENS $500,000 EX

By DAVID BROWN
Globe-Democrat Staff Writer

The work with plow and ax was hard and the days were long and full of toil but they dreamed of a better future, these early Methodist settlers with calloused hands and little learning and a living faith in God, and so they built a college on the crown of a gentle hill where a wild thicket grew.

Their children would go to that college and their children's children, and they would increase in knowledge and take a meaningful place in the new nation that was being wrested from the wilderness and the service of Christianity. The college would train learned planners to fill the pulpits of new churches that some day would raise their spires in the new land, and they would succeed the rough circuit rider who carried the gospel by horseback to the frontier settlements with his Bible, his hymn book and his willingness to sacrifice.

Oldest in State

The college was built by early settlers who lived in and near the village of Lebanon, a brief stagecoach ride, [illegible] and office on the old Indian trail from Vincennes to Fort Louis, which was used by stagecoaches in those days and by the creaking wagons of pioneers plodding [illegible]

[illegible] was a spacious three-story frame building sheathed with clapboard and with log cabin dormitories adjoined. At first it was simply known as [illegible] Seminary but soon [illegible] named McKendree College after a notable [illegible] bishop of that time, William McKendree, man of wisdom and simple piety who fought with George Washington and had seen the British surrender.

Today 135 years have passed since the early Illinois settlers first swung their axes in behalf of higher learning. The dusty trail that jostled the stagecoaches now is a smooth ribbon of concrete known as Highway 50. The wild thicket is a grassy campus shaded by tall oaks and elms and many. The original frame building burned down before the War, but now there are brick buildings of Georgian style where the liberal arts are taught in a Christian atmosphere to 350 young men and women.

From the original [illegible] capsule McKendree has grown through the years to meet the desperate challenge for souls of the [illegible] and sacrificial service. The college grew [illegible] today it is [illegible] in the state [illegible] is the [illegible] whole church under the Methodist [illegible]

"Two . . . four . . . six . . . eight.

What do we appreciate?
Money . . Money . . . Money!"

McKendree College is meeting the exciting and disturbing challenge of the jet age in education with a tremendous campaign to raise a $[illegible],000 expansion fund. The big kickoff is this weekend and the intensive drive for donations to the fund will continue until December 12.

$500,000 Expansion Goal Is Surpassed; Cash and Pledges Exceed $658,000!

The $500,000 Expansion Fund goal has been surpassed with cash and pledges solicited from all sources since the beginning of the McKendree College Expansion Fund drive in September, 1963.

Although the actual campaign vers a three-year period, the ges, which total in excess of 00 appeor to assure the fact Kendree will have complete r step two of the overall velopment. Moneys and ding $558,000 were re- the (Southern Illinois) initial gifts divisions gn.

ccess of this close of 1963 of the bright- est for capital funds campaigns in the history of McKendree. The Circuit Riders' campaign (which brought in approximately $130,000 under board chairman Milbern P. Akers' guidance) and the Expansion Fund campaign with approximately $660,000 add up to more than three quarters of a million dollars from two capital drives in 1963.

Such support by the alumni, churches of the Southern Illinois Conference, and other friends of McKendree is unprecedented in the history of the college.

According to President Max P. Allen, " . . . these two successful campaigns have assured us at McKendree that if we continue to serve the young people who are coming to us in ever increasing numbers, we will be able to secur the additional support necessary to house and educate them in the finest McKendree traditions of quality that led Theodore Roosevelt to refer to McKendree as "the oldest and best in the Middle West."

EDITOR'S PAGE

Each year McKendree College advances toward a more secure future. As a student for three and one-half years I have witnessed progress. The planning and success of the campaigns to raise funds show that people realize the value of a small school.

As a native of St. Louis, I feel this city has also been making strides forward. The progress shown here at McKendree and the progress made by St. Louis is equally important to Illinois, Missouri, the Mid-West, and our Nation.

As Editor of the 1964 McKendrean I hope this book will serve as a lasting memory to students and friends of the College.
